

Public Health
England

Learning for Public Health
West Midlands

SAVE THE DATE

Adapting to the new climate – A rural affair

27 June 2014

09.30-15.00 (lunch included)

Shropshire Conference Centre, Mytton Oak Road, Shrewsbury, SY3 8XQ

Climate change is and will increasingly be an issue of central importance to the health and wellbeing of local communities. Strategies to adapt to climate change are therefore an integral component of local planning and decision making, bringing multiple benefits to the physical and mental health of the population.

Taking action on adaptation will improve the resilience of our services and the communities they serve, lessen the burden of illness and disease, and reduce health inequalities.

Confirmed speakers:

Prof. John Thornes, Public Health England

Prof. Rod Thompson, DPH Shropshire

Cllr Cecilia Motley, Chair of the national Rural Services Network

Aimed at: Public Health practitioners, specialists, sustainability and climate change officers, Environment Agency colleagues, planners, developers, commissioners and anyone with an interest in this agenda.

- Update participants on the latest climate change science and guidance
- Detail lessons learnt from the 2014 flooding
- Provide practical advice on creating more resilient communities
- Facilitate the sharing of best practice

Early bird bookings are now being taken and places are strictly limited. If you wish to book your place, click on this link:

<http://www.lfphwm.org.uk/member/Events/View/event/44>

www.lfphwm.org.uk

Follow us on Twitter: @lfphwm

Terms and Conditions

LfPHWM reserves the right to amend the programme in agreement with the speakers

LfPHWM reserves the right to amend delegate attendance at any time

We may use photographs taken at events in publicity and marketing materials including our website. If you do not wish to be included in these promotions, please inform the Coordinator on the day

If you are not a West Midlands Public Health colleague but still wish to attend, a small delegate fee will be charged. Please register and we will contact you to discuss payment details

If you are a practitioner practising in the West Midlands but your organisation does not pay a CPD levy please be aware you may be charged to attend. Please register and we will contact you to discuss payment details.